DETAILED ACTION

Request for Continued Examination

Applicant's Request for Continued Examination filed on October 6, 2006 is acknowledged by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Applicant's amended claim requires that the adhesion promoter be applied to an opto-electronic surface of a device produced in a CMOS process. The specification, as originally filed, only supports a method wherein an adhesion promoter is applied on an electrical surface of a device produced in a CMOS. The specification does not state that the adhesion promoter can be applied on an opto-electronic surface of a device produced in a CMOS process. In fact, paragraph 0131 shows that applicant contemplated applying the adhesion promoter to a surface of an electrical device produced in a CMOS process as an alternative to applying the adhesion promoter on opto-electronic surface. In said paragraph, applicant refers to the example above, which is an example of applying the adhesion promoter on an opto-electronic surface, and then states "however, the adhesion promoter can be used in a CMOS process, such as for increases adhesion of a dielectric, for increasing adhesion of a passivation layer..." Based upon the specification, the applicant has not demonstrated that at the time the application was filed, applicant contemplated applying the adhesion promoter to an opto-electronic surface of a device produced in a CMOS process.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Olds (2003/0022395) (newly cited) in view of Kishita et al. (EP 0616012) (newly cited).

Olds discloses a method of coating a polymer, metal, metalloid oxide, or fluorinated derivatives thereof to an opto-electronic surface of a device produced in a CMOS process (paragraph 0097). Olds is silent as to the presence of a hybrid adhesion promoting layer. Kishita et al. discloses a method of applying a fluorinated hybrid organic-inorganic material containing silicon to the surface of an electronic substrate for the purpose of promoting adhesion between said electronic substrate and another surface. Kishita et al. further discloses that a fluorinated hybrid organic-inorganic material containing silicon has excellent adhesion promoting properties, especially when applied to electrical surfaces (abstract, page 2). At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to apply Kishita et al.'s adhesion promoting layer to the opto-electronic surface of Olds as taught by Kishita et al. above. Such a modification to Olds method would improve the bond between Olds opto-electrical surface and coating.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
